PROGRAM

The COVID-19 pandemic has had a shocking effect on our social and economic structures. While it is still too early to visualize the impact it will have on international arbitration, we are witnessing—and experiencing—new developments on a daily basis. In this virtual panel, we will explore with a party counsel (Anna Masser), an independent arbitrator (Stephanie Cohen) and a representative of the ICDR (Luis Martinez), the new challenges that we are facing and expect to face, as well as the new opportunities, as arbitration practitioners in the time of COVID-19. We will also discuss the tools that ICDR has put in place to overcome these challenges.
